WARE MALCOMB ANNOUNCES JAN DAVIS PROMOTED TO DIRECTOR, COMMERCIAL ARCHITECTURE IN DENVER OFFICE

DENVER (March 27, 2017) – Ware Malcomb, an award-winning international design firm, today announced Jan Davis has been promoted to Director, Commercial Architecture in the firm’s Denver office.

“Jan’s leadership, dedication and extensive architectural knowledge have made her an indispensable leader and member of the Denver team for the past 10 years,” said Matt Chaiken, Principal of Ware Malcomb’s Denver office. “Her personal commitment to the Denver staff and Ware Malcomb have been key elements to our success. Jan has always led by example and brought out the best in all of us. We congratulate her on this well-deserved promotion.”

Davis joined Ware Malcomb’s Denver office as Project Manager in 2006 and was promoted to Studio Manager, Commercial Architecture in 2007. She received a Bachelors of Fine Arts from Colorado College and a Masters of Architecture from the University of Colorado, Denver.

Recent high profile projects designed by Ware Malcomb in the Denver area include: Crossroads Commerce Center located at Washington St and 55th, Atria’s Class A office campus in Broomfield; a new flex industrial building for Accurrence in the Colorado Technology Center in Louisville; DB Schenker’s redesigned corporate office and data center in Lakewood; and AMG National Trust Bank’s new corporate headquarters in Greenwood Village.

In 2015, Ware Malcomb moved to a larger office location in downtown Denver to accommodate the firm’s growing client and employee base. In 2016, Ware Malcomb acquired Denver-based Jansen Strawn Consulting Engineers to augment the firm’s civil engineering services. The firm now has two office locations in the Denver area.
